

One Hour Vacation

Idea # 45

Employee Morale Booster

Provide your employees a floating, paid one-hour vacation every week that each employee decides how to use.

They can choose to come in late,
leave early or take an extra long lunch.

The employee gets the satisfaction of controlling that hour and the employer gets a boost in employee morale and increased productivity.

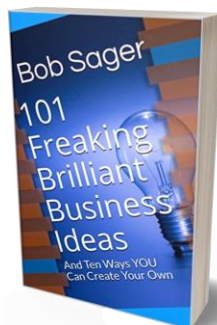

By giving employees the freedom to control of a bit of their time, employers will get more productivity in 39 hours than they were previously getting in 40.

What other innovative ideas does this one spark that could help boost employee morale and productivity?

This idea is from my book, 101 Freaking Brilliant Ideas: And Ten Ways YOU Can Create Your Own

It's an example of the sort of ideas you'll get as a subscriber to our soon-to-be-launched

Freaking Brilliant Ideas Bank